5chan

Logo:

The Scroll of Life

Introduction: In a world where the internet often overwhelms and distracts us, 5chan emerges as a unique collective of anonymous experts dedicated to sparking existential reflection. Our mission is to challenge the status quo, encouraging users to confront the deeper implications of their online habits.

About:

At 5chan, we believe that the internet should be a space for connection, creativity, and constructive discourse. However, as we navigate the online landscape, our culture experts find it crucial to recognize how our behaviors contribute to the pervasive culture of hate and division and how we may even be doing it unknowingly and hurting ourselves. We encourage our viewers to question their own online interactions and consider the implications of their digital footprints.

Description/Memorial Post:

"Are you the NPC?" By: Admin872823

>You consider yourself a introvert, being around social energy all the time is draining and boring. Being at home and preserving your peace and energy sounds like a hell of a night to you.

>You decide to go to a party your roommate invites you to.

>All night you're just blasted with Maroon 5 'Sugar' and Drake 'Gods plan', You immediately regret even coming here, why be around an environment where pop songs from 5-9 years ago are being played like a trip to a FOREVER21?

>No one understands what taste really is anymore, everyone and their ripped jeans and sweatshirts combos.. all 'NPCs'.. Engaging in 'NPC' behavior.

Its no doubt touching your phone every hour of the day since you have awoken is not that uncommon anymore. It might even be the first thing you pick up. You go on social media and give your brain that sprinkle of dopamine by seeing content you generally enjoy or you interact with.

You wake up on a Thursday before attending work/class and that's when you see it, the trend, the song, the outfit, the skincare, the dance, the meme. It was funny and interesting the first few times you saw it a few weeks ago but now recycled and overused mediums were being made. A feeling of annoyance washes over you, seeing this type of content for the 25 th time! This content's comments and likes stayed a bit consistent since you have first seen it with some new eyes on it, giving it praise and laughter. Seeing this material gives you discomfort and annoyance before you have even left your bed.

How could anyone find this amusing anymore? These common people must know nothing. Its like seeing a baby being amused by a simple game of Peek-a-Boo, or a mother laughing at a minions meme that has a 'but first, coffee' reference. All of these people are simpletons, simple titles to their name and no depth, all printed slightly alternating copies.

Yet as you put down your phone and gradually get yourself out of bed, you start your mornings downing the same cup of brown bean water, cooking lunch whilst scrolling on Youtube or Tiktok;giving out a few comments and likes, going grocery shopping, coming home from school/work and then laying in bed whilst scrolling once again, its the end of the day, you have time to finally relax right?

What makes your neighbor different from you?

The more you're exposed to on the internet? your knowledge about what's 'trending' or 'outdated'? Is your style different? You couldn't have been the first to have that same outfit coordination, maybe it was from your favorite punk band, just inspiration of course. What makes you different from your neighbor? You can recognize these trends and see what the majority of people find interesting to share and talk about. Does that mean you're a greater human being?

You're the problem, Metaphysical Solipsism: Metaphysical solipsism states that "only my mind truly exists; in other words, I exist, and everything else is merely a product of my thoughts or imagination."

Other realities, including the external world and other persons are representations of that self, having no independent existence.

You dislike 'Mob Mentality' just the idea of people band-wagoning on something they do not have much depth about is distasteful to you. What you're experiencing is yourself..

experiencing thyself..

experiencing itself..

experiencing you,

its not that you 'hate it', you see how 'played out' it is and then you think other people think its played out, so you dont want other people to think you're victim to the common culture/collective; other people think its 'played out' because other people think its played out.

you're embracing and brainwashed into Western culture individualism.
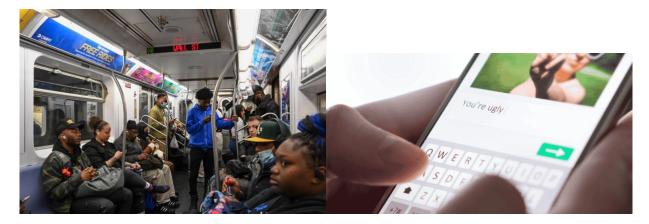

Are you the NPC?

Research (3):

Social media and online hate

The Psychology Behind Social Media Hate

Is Hate Bonding a thing?

Photos:

1.Subway Train Mobile Phone People New York City Pictures, Images and Stock Photos Photographed by :iStock

2.What is the real-world impact of online hate speech on young people? Sourced by: InternetMatters.org

3. Adobe Stock By: reewungjunerr

3.mentorcliq.com By: Mentorcliq

Videos Sourced/References:

THE "POPULAR SHOE" PROBLEM IN FASHION

internet culture is fking nauseating

I Hate NPC Music

Is the internet creating a culture of hate in the US?

Product/Membership/Recruitment:

Are you ready to transform your online experience? Join us at 5chan for our exclusive Online Bootcamp, designed to equip you with the essential skills and habits for becoming a healthier, more mindful internet consumer. These skills and habits will soon leak into your interpersonal lives and you'll reach a new empathic state that will elevate you.

In today's fast-paced digital world, it's easy to get lost in the noise. For just $30 each a course, our bootcamp offers a structured mentorship program that empowers you to navigate the internet with intention and purpose. Through interactive lessons, engaging discussions, and practical exercises, you'll learn how to critically assess online content, foster positive connections, and combat the culture of negativity that often permeates our digital lives from our anonymous experts.

(I hope to edit this image.)

Conclusion

Through thought-provoking content, interactive discussions, and engaging resources, we aim to spark an existential crisis about our internet habits and how they may bleed into society, ourselves and how we view the world. We challenge you to reflect on your consumption patterns, recognize the impact of your engagement, and ultimately, transform the way you interact online.

Join us as we work towards a more compassionate and understanding internet, one click and scroll at a time.